Declaration of Endorsement and Commitment to the European Charter for Researchers and The Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers

Inria, the French National Institute for computer science and applied mathematics represented by its CEO, Dr. Bruno Sportisse, fully endorses the general rules of The European Charter for Researchers as well as The Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers.

Many of the good practice principles presented in both documents have already been applied at our institute. Our commitment started by signing on December 20th 2006 the Charter for Researchers and the Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers.

Inria hereby declares its commitment to address and implement the remaining regulations included in the Charter and the Code in the nearest future. Inria notify you about our commitment to implement these principles via the Human Resources Strategy for Researchers (HRS4R) in our institution.

Inria not only supports the work and development of individual researchers, but also aims to maintain the high quality of research in general.

We strongly believe that implementing the principles highlighted in the Charter and the Code will contribute to development of the European Research Area.

Yours faithfully,

Dr. Bruno Sportisse
CEO of Inria
